Italian People Vote Country As Republic

ROME, (AP) -- Pietro Nenni, Socialist vice-premier, announced Wednesday that a republic had been voted for by the Italian people and that King Humbert would leave Italy Saturday.

A government source had announced four hours earlier the defeat of the monarchy in the week-end plebiscite.

Queen Maria Jose, wife of King Humbert, and her four children arrived at an airport in Naples suburb Wednesday by plane from Rome. She was accompanied by three ladies-in-waiting. All went to the Villa Maria Pia at Posillipo, where King Victor Emmanuel spent his last days in Italy before his abdication.

Trucks loaded with 20 pieces of luggage from the king went to the villa. Humbert was not with his wife.

With some votes still to be counted, Nenni said the Republic had polled roughly 12,000,000 votes against 10,000,000 for the monarchy.

He said Humbert would leave immediately after the count.

The interior ministry announced Wednesday the Christian Democrats won 7,593,783 votes out of 21,549,002 tabulated so far, while the Socialists polled 4,512,353 and the Communists 4,129,222. The new assembly will write a new Italian constitution.

Surprise Move Seen As Upset To C.I.O. Strike Negotiations

WASHINGTON, (AP) -- A.F.L. seamen stole a march on the C.I.O. maritime unions by calling a strike on all coasts for Thursday afternoon.

The strike was described as simultaneous "stop-work meetings" by John Hawk, vice-president of the U.S. Seafarers International union in New York.

Mr. Hawk said he could not reveal the purpose of the meetings. But earlier in San Francisco, Harry Lundberg, president of the union, issued a statement saying the A.F.L. seamen of the west coast were "ready to take drastic action" to get the Pacific ship-owners home from Washington to engage in collective bargaining with the A.F.L. men.

Mr. Lundberg criticized Labor Secretary Schwelb's call for "delineating the shipowners in Washington" as a "stopping point" for negotiations are going on with a group of C.I.O. maritime unions in efforts to avert a scheduled country-wide C.I.O. maritime strike scheduled for June 15.

The unexpected A.F.L. entry into the confused maritime crisis came shortly after President Truman stepped into the picture with a call to the ship operators and C.I.O. unions to "buckle down and settle this matter through collective bargaining."

Mr. Lundberg added the "drastic action" he referred to might include stop-work meetings or a full strike within 24 hours.

The government will not try to keep all U.S. ships running if the C.I.O. strike occurs, a where no report is received privately.

With the strike deadline 10 days off in efforts to avert a scheduled country-wide C.I.O. maritime strike scheduled for June 15, president said "we're still quite a ways apart" on settlement.

Attlee Says Soviet Violates Spirit Of Potsdam Agreement

LONDON, (AP) -- Prime Minister Attlee charged Wednesday that Russia had disregarded the spirit in which the Allies entered into the Potsdam agreement.

He spoke in a foreign affairs debate shortly after Winston Churchill, wartime prime minister and now opposition leader, declared that "the seeds of a new world war are being sown" in the Soviet-dominated areas of eastern Europe.

Mr. Attlee said Russia had insisted on imparting to the Potsdam agreement a "rigid and literal interpretation denying all flexibility to meet the changing situation."

Mr. Attlee said one of Britain's greatest difficulties was that the "Russian friends" were being brought into the minds of our Russian friends some real understanding of the way we think in western democracies.

Over the fence, guards fired. "I think they were very nearly trapped some lead," said Warden John Millman.

Order Cease Fire In Chinese War

HANKOW, (AP) -- Chiang Kai-shek Thursday issued a cease-fire order calling a 15-day halt in the long, bloody civil conflict in Manchuria.

The measure, effective Friday, is expected to clear the way to permanent settlement of differences between the Chinese government and the Communists.

"It is issuing orders to my armies to hold all advances, attacks and pursuits," the generalissimo announced.

"Doing this gives the Communist party an opportunity to demonstrate its good faith and intention of carrying out the agreement previously signed. The government in no way precludes its right to defend the Manchurian sovereignty, and the agreement to recover the Manchurian province is a previous agreement as a January political-military truce since violated."

Province To Spend $100,000 At Air Base For Veterans

Expenditure of $100,000 to provide dormitory space at the American air base in Edmonton for 500 single veterans students of the University of Alberta, who will require it this fall has been approved by the provincial government, Premier Manning said Wednesday.

The Dominion government had been told that space would be needed for 500 married veterans and 500 single ones. It was urged on Ottawa that assistance sufficient to convert the building at the air base was a necessity if Alberta veterans were to take advantage of opportunities offered them for higher education and rehabilitation schemes. A committee of provincial government officials and university authorities, backed by representatives of the veterans, Mr. Manning department of veterans said.

Britons Appalled By News Of Big Powers Discord

By Charles Nichols
LONDON. -- There is one more chance for general peace in Europe. For Ernest Bevin's blunt analysis of the big powers differences in the commons Tuesday contained a straight warning that if Russia does not show genuine desire for a European settlement...

known method by which the western powers can deal with the international diplomacy that characterizes the Russian foreign ministry. It is a patient effort to understand what's behind the Oriental diplomacy and coupled with that, a sustained effort to make clear what is behind Britain's own diplomacy. Both were contained in Bevin's speech. The foreign secretary's pronouncement has been received with seriousness by all shades of opinion in Britain. The reaction has been appalled by the stark recital of issues which separate members of the ruling coalition. Labor backbenchers have been upset by the prospect that Britain's efforts to seal friendship with Russia -- including the British 50-year treaty -- have borne no fruit.

Fear Russians In Touch R.C.M.P.

By M.N. Negru
MONTREAL, (CP) -- Fear that members of the Russian secret police might be working with the R.C.M.P. in Ottawa led Igor Gouzenko to tell his story of an alleged espionage ring in Canada to other sources first, the former Russian cipher clerk said Wednesday at the conspiracy trial of Fred Rose, M.P. Recalled to the witness stand for cross-examination by the defence after the court had heard an affidavit, Miss Gouzenko said she had given Rose information she gained from documents at her work as stenographer at the United Kingdom high commissioner's office in Ottawa. Gouzenko said he had gone to the Ottawa Journal with his story because he felt it was published he would be protected by the law from retaliation by the embassy.

Back In Moscow Dies Suddenly

OTTAWA. -- The Ottawa Morning Journal in a newspaper story Wednesday said that a Russian spy, who had been recalled here "for reasons of state," died suddenly in London. The story said that the spy, who was known as "John Smith," was a former military attaché at the Soviet embassy in Ottawa. He was recalled to Moscow four days after his return from the Canadian capital. Col. Zabin was named by Igor Gouzenko, former Russian cipher clerk, as the spy who was recalled here "for reasons of state." Gouzenko said that he had been told by a source in the embassy that Zabin was recalled here "for reasons of state." Britons Shocked By Food Outlook

By Basil Dean

LONDON. -- Britons Tuesday learned the full shocking significance of cuts in livestock feed caused by raising wheat extraction rate from 85 per cent to 88 per cent of whole grain. The worst result will be a drop in domestic milk production -- set by some estimates at more than 100,000,000 gallons -- which will be inevitable after a reduction of winter ration for milk by 40 per cent as from Oct. 1.

Last winter, ordinary Britons got less than one-third of a pint of milk per day, with ration for expectant mothers and young children. A drop of 100,000,000 gallons would mean 30 per cent less milk -- or less than one and one-half pints per person per week.

Soviet Opposes Conclusions Of Sub-Committee On Spain

NEW YORK, (AP) -- An authorized Soviet spokesman declared Wednesday that Russia is strongly opposed to the conclusions reached by the United Nations security council sub-committee investigating Franco Spain. The sub-committee had announced that...

Spain does not present a threat to the peace and that the security council has no jurisdiction to authorize enforcement measures called for by the charter. The sub-committee recommended, however, that if Franco still is in power in September the general assembly call upon the entire membership of the United Nations to break relations with the Franco regime.

The Soviet spokesman said the Russian delegate, Andrei A. Gromyko, is not enthusiastic about the sub-committee's conclusions, regarding the United Nations' recommendation that Spain be considered for membership in the United Nations. It recommended that Spain be considered for membership in the United Nations if Franco is removed.

Atomic Energy Control

The unanimous support by all parties in the house of commons of the principle of state control of the development of atomic energy reflects fairly the sentiment of the Canadian people. Most of us know very little about this new source of energy, apart from its demonstrated power to destroy human life and human achievement. We do know, however, that if it is to be used to benefit mankind, the present direction of atomic research will have to be changed radically.

An interesting disclosure is that the "Atom Bomb" plant is expected to provide a research centre that, for its purposes, would be unequalled in the world for a considerable time.

The Atomic Energy Control Act provides that research in the dominion is to be controlled by a government-appointed board. It will not only undertake research itself, but will be empowered to assist approved research in Canadian universities, under proper safeguards.

Thus the composition of the board will be of the greatest significance and of the importance. Scientists already selected will be approved. They are Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the National Research Council, and General McNaughton, Canadian representative on the United Nations atomic energy committee.

Mr. Howe anticipates that within five years atomic energy will be available for civilian use in a restricted form. The transference of heat is expected to be one of the first problems solved.

What the dominion is planning to do in this line of research is for the benefit of mankind. It is therefore that there should be no strict censorship of discoveries. The usual commercial patents would be in order, perhaps, but the scientific knowledge on which technical processes will be founded should be freely given to the whole world.

Shocking Tragedy

The self-destruction of a 62-year-old veteran of the First World War, because he could no longer stand being tormented by several young boys, has deeply shocked the community.

The cruelty of children is proverbial, particularly toward each other. And the tormenting of elderly eccentrics by youthful barbarians is an old story. Yet each fresh instance is shocking.

How far the "four young boys" repented to have been throwing stones at this elderly veteran, carried their tortures, has not been revealed. But it is to be hoped those who drove him to his death will be made to realize beyond forgetting the enormity of their offence.

Once again, home, school and church must share the blame. Certainly if any attempt had been made to instill in these boys a respect for age and sympathy for the ailing, it failed utterly.

Landlady Sees The Light

A Winnipeg woman has discovered that young childless couples "pay" too much, make a racket and are less stable than those with children. So she has notified the city's housing agency that hereafter she would prefer as tenants families with young children. Many a young married couple with, say, a two-year-old and a baby, will be praying that the good sense the Winnipeg woman will have an effect on Edmonton landlords who insist "no children".

What a revolution there would be if landlords suddenly began advertising "no childless couples" instead.

Franco Spain Condemned

The report of the United Nations sub-committee investigating Spain is the most authoritative condemnation which the Franco regime has yet incurred. The committee confirmed most of the charges commonly made against the present Spanish government. Fascist co-operation with the Axis during the war, refusal to co-operate in the post-war liquidation of Nazism, persecution of political opponents, and excessive military preparations. It also branded Franco's Spain a "potential menace to international peace", and urged the member nations of the U. N. to break off diplomatic relations unless Franco is removed by September.

Whether this move will actually be taken remains to be seen. Several members of the world organization—notably Argentina and other Latin American states—will certainly oppose it tooth and nail. So will influential groups in Britain and the United States, who still think of Franco as a bulwark against Communism.

The effect of universal non-recognition is also an unknown quantity. Individual nations have broken off diplomatic relations with each other in the past, but this is the first time a world-wide boycott of a single country has ever been urged. It might prove deadly, especially if backed by economic sanctions.

The report has brought the United Nations to a definite standstill. Prompt action on the committee's recommendations will not only rid the world of the last surviving Axis dictatorship but will, enormously enhance the prestige of the world organization, and ensure proper settlement of disputes, but also for eliminating potential dangers to peace.

Blitz on Common Cold

Perhaps the best news medical science has given the ordinary man in recent years is the announcement that the British Ministry of Health is launching the first large-scale investigation ever undertaken of the common cold.

The cold is by all odds the most frequent of human afflictions, and one of the most irritating and miserable. It causes more loss of time and production in business and industry than any other ailment. In countless cases, too, it opens the door to more serious diseases.

For some obscure reason, medical research has by-passed the subject almost completely. More money and effort have gone into research on any one of a dozen obscure tropical diseases than have ever been expended on the ever-present cold.

As a result, very little is known on the subject. It is believed that colds are caused by a virus, transmitted through the air, but this is still a conjecture. No explanation has ever been offered as to why an individual cannot build up an immunity to them as he can to other diseases. Even the relation between the ordinary cold and the more severe and dangerous influenza remains largely unexplored. And naturally, amid this general darkness, little has been done to discover effective methods of cure or prevention.

The British experiments are designed to remedy this gap. The researchers are particularly anxious to find out just how colds are transmitted, how their spread can be checked and how individuals can build up immunity to them. A sufferer at one end of the world, however, will wish them full success.

Here and There

In these days of jet-propelled planes, it seems an anachronism to find a Vancouver man planning to cross the continent by canoe.

"Among primitive tribes" says a science note "it is believed that a person can avert threatening dangers by changing his name. The police advise that the same quaint belief also persists in civilization."

Our Ottawa parliamentarians seem to have started something. Now the members of the British house of commons had boosted their salaries.

The Third Column

By Basil Dean

LONDON. -- Britain knows that to maintain her place in the atomic age she must train and employ a large number of skilled scientists. The latest official estimate is that by 1950 Britain must have a minimum of 90,000 qualified men in all the various branches of pure and applied scientific research and development. But alongside that estimate is another: the maximum number of men to be graduated from British universities with their present facilities, by 1955 will be only 64,000, or 26,000 short of the requirement.

Short of this Britain is concerned about a probable shortage of trained technicians. But the problem here is different from the one which must be faced in Ottawa. Britain is not confronted with the specific lack of some of her best brains being exported year after year to the United States; her scientific scientists in this country are reasonably generous. But without vastly increased educational facilities, the industry is in danger of being left behind in the world race for invention and new production techniques.

Last December, Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, and the prime minister in the Labor government, appointed a committee of distinguished scientists and experts to examine this problem and see what should be done. The committee has now reported. It recommends:

(1) Establishment of one completely new British university.

(2) Heavy state subsidies for existing universities to enable them to increase facilities and capacities. "It is of great importance that the universities should be assured that they will be able to rely on adequate and continuing assistance from the government toward any project for which good cause is shown."

(3) Everything possible should be done to meet the demands of students from the Commonwealth and foreign countries for places in British universities.

(4) Since, even with all possible expansion of training facilities, Britain will probably be short of trained scientists in the early 1950's, priorities should be established for allocating the inadequate supply. The order of preference should be, first, teaching and fundamental research, second, civil service, third, defence science.

(5) Better pay, more secretarial assistance and office machinery for university teachers.

(6) Universities should be encouraged to expand their capacity to 5,000 trained scientists per year. There is no fear that this will leave them with excessive staffs and accommodations, but after the demand for qualified scientists has levelled out.

X X X
With one eye on possible criticism of the wide scope of their recommendations, the committee members are careful to point out that even if it is properly carried out, the population, she would still "fall short of the United States (and Canada) in the relative provision made for higher education."

SCHOOL RECORDS

From Ontario Historical News Record

In several parts of Ontario the former boards of trustees for individual rural schools are being abolished and new township boards of education inaugurated. Some school sections have histories running back for a century or more, and their old minute books and teachers' registers of pupils are records of historic value. Many of them are in the hands of former trustees, secretaries or teachers and are likely to be destroyed if not assembled in some municipal office. The new township boards are urged to take care for the old documents.

BIBLE MESSAGE

Touching the Almighty, we cannot find him out; he is excellent in power, and in judgment; and in plenty of quietness he will not afflict (Job 37:23).

Matter of Life and Death

Evidently June 1st is launching another of its traditional programs of showers and washing which have made this western country one of the great food-producing areas of the world. Whatever else they may have done, there is no reason thus far to suppose those sun-spots have deadlocked the elements and stopped the creative machinery. No one needs to be told this is a matter of vital concern to western people, in town and country, and especially to those who are scarcely less indirectly important to people in all parts of Canada. But what should be fully recognized and appreciated is that in the existing circumstances it is a matter of life and death also for people on the other side of the Atlantic and the Pacific.

To those hunger-afflicted regions Canada is sending wheat at a rate which will total 340,000,000 bushels for the present year's output. But every official who has anything to do with famine relief, and officials in this and other countries whose duties require them to know and publish the facts, are agreed that this small to keep up the distress-export through the coming fall and winter on as large a scale will permit the yield of the crops.

Men do not live by bread alone when they can vary their diet. But in the hunger zones they are not getting much else, and are not likely to. It is easier to feed a starving man with wheat than on any other kind of food. Hence the experts are stressing the need of heavy credit subsidies into these zones indefinitely.

Men for men there is no other part of the world where so much wheat is produced or exported as in western Canada. The importance of this year's Alberta grain crops to people living in the hunger zones of central Asia is obvious. For a good many of them the only weather we get during the next winter will probably mean the difference between life and death.

Out Franco-Or Else

The committee of the Security Council cannot have had much of a choice when it decided that the tyrant of despotism of Spain is not an imminent threat to world peace.

But this evil distinction would be to give Franco a standing he obviously is not entitled to. The committee has never find that his government is a potential menace, which is equally clear. Circumstances have arisen in which Franco would be able to make mischief as he did when Hitler and Mussolini were engaged, as he and they supposed, in re-making the civilization and the map of Europe. At that time he was an actual not merely a prospective, threat.

To prevent Franco ever again taking advantage of circumstances to make himself a menace to peace in reality, the committee proposed that the United Nations at their September meeting agree to sever diplomatic relations with his regime. On this question of breaking relations, the Big Four are disagreed. But perhaps any of the committee proposals that the Security Council keep clear of the issue by turning the matter over to the general Assembly; the Council having already more than enough standing disreputable.

This plan is a plain invitation to the "Spanish people to get rid of Franco in the meantime if they can avoid it, and to change that they may find themselves officially quarantined and commercially ostracized. Their relations with the world would be likely to bring about the fall of the dictator, but he then will probably determine what the Assembly will do.

PARSON 'ON STRIKE'

LONDON Daily Express
-- The Rev. J. Noel Lyth, rector of an Anglican church in England, has told his congregation: "I will neither bury nor bury your children unless your claim in terms of church-going is good. Fancy writing: I am on strike."

"I hope that what I have said will offend a good many of you if, being offended, you are also challenged to some serious thinking about the quality of your religious life."

Food Parcel Rates

Speaking in Vancouver, British Columbia's Agent-General W. A. McAdam, told how deeply the British people had been touched by the supplies of goods sent to them by their Canadian friends. He suggested that the reduction in the postal rate on such food parcels would be desirable at the present time.

This is a most timely proposal at the moment when the Canadian Government is doing its utmost to find new means of aiding the people of the United Kingdom. Thousands of Canadians regularly send food parcels to relatives in England and Scotland and Ireland. It is certain that thousands more would despatch these parcels if the postage were materially lowered, because the postage is sometimes more costly than the contents.

Now that shipping has become available to carry food parcels is almost unlimited. The Canadian Government would open up a new and useful avenue of assistance by lowering these rates appreciably.

Today, in Europe

By

RANDOLPH CHURCHILL

PARIS -- Despite Foreign Minister Molotov's unannounced outbreak there are signs the Kremlin's offensive has failed. It would not be surprising if, behind the cluster of Molotov's attack on Britain and the United States, a considerable change in Russian tactics may be contemplated.

Perhaps the most significant feature of the failure of Russian policy is the relaxation of its pressure on Turkey. When Russia started her assault on the British Empire, Soviet strategy was to force a wedge between Britain and the United States. Therefore, though British policy and influence were attacked all over the world, the attack was concentrated in the Mediterranean and the Middle East, where Britain was judged to be most vulnerable.

Main features were demands for bases in the Aegean, the Dodecanese Islands, Tripolitania, and as far as the Red Sea. The last three have been abandoned and even claim to bases in the Turkish straits has been put back into cold storage. At the same time, the assurance of the British has been reduced, though Russia is still trying to stir up trouble among the Kurdish population.

Withdrawal of these demands has been written off by some observers as a mere withdrawal of token claims in the hope of getting concessions elsewhere. Some have represented the whole maneuver as nothing more than traditional Russian diplomacy. Actually, what has happened has been an overwhelming defeat.

Russia's "over-all strategic concept" was to gain entry into the Mediterranean as a split Britain from the United States. Instead of achieving this, she has failed to enter the Mediterranean and has succeeded in bringing Britain and the United States closer together. In addition, she has aroused American suspicion of her importance of British control of the Mediterranean. And Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin has made it plain that to share her responsibilities with the United States in this area, the Soviet Union should be given bases in the Mediterranean as playing with fire. There are enough areas where British and Russian interests clash without needlessly creating another.

The Road Ahead

By Harper Frowse, M.L.A.

It was my privilege at the recent Legion convention to be a member of the pre-convention committee set up to deal with the proposed changes in the constitution for the benefit of those many Legion members who weren't able to attend the convention, and those who were interested in the Legion. I will describe in this column how the committee worked.

The first morning the members of the committee were allocated to sub-committees to deal with the suggested changes in detail. These sub-committees included housing, unionized labor and the security question, war assets, private business loans, veterans land act, educational and recreational training.

As our discussions progressed one fact became increasingly clear -- the whole thing was practically every one of our problems was the fact that there are serious shortages of practically everything in Canada today.

It became evident too that one of the big troubles is the fact that there is a great shortage of men who are willing to work in the basic industries, under pioneer conditions. We need more production from the lumbering industry, from the mining industry, from agriculture.

We need a resurgence of the pioneer spirit. But how to set that resurgence is another matter we did not feel qualified to pass judgment on.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix: Can a second marriage be as successful as a first? Can one's real, true love come after marriage?

Dolores

Answer: Second marriages are often far more successful than first marriages because the man and woman who enter into them are generally older, have had more knowledge and experience of life and are better able to adjust themselves to each other and to take life as it comes. The fact that second marriages seldom end in divorce is proof that they are happy ones. Brides and wives who love each other to begin with become more and more devoted as the years go by, and as they are knit closer together by their children and by their common interests. But if they do not love each other before they are married, they may come to respect each other and to have a good friendship, but they rarely fall in love.

One pays income tax... THE OTHER PAYS NONE

Imagine two companies carrying on the same kind of business in exactly the same way. One carries a heavy burden of income tax—about 23 times as much as in 1930; 12 times as much as in 1939. The other doesn't pay a cent.

Why? Because it is a "co-operative". Like any other Corporation, its earnings are derived from buying, selling, processing, manufacturing, servicing, employment of labor, etc. It receives income from real estate, from Government bonds and other investments. But it claims its earnings are not profits because it is a co-operative.

A Royal Commission has declared that co-operatives do make profits and recommends that these profits be taxed. But it has also recommended that profits paid out to customers as "patronage dividends" be allowed as an expense in computing taxable income.

Patronage dividends are not an expense of doing business

We are not attacking the principle of paying "patronage dividends", provided such dividends are distributed from profits after the payment of income tax. But if "patronage dividends" are to be allowed as an ordinary expense of doing business, to be deductible in computing taxable income, the door will be wide open for co-operatives or other businesses to pay out their entire profits as patronage dividends leaving nothing to be taxed.

Individuals are faced with heavier Income Tax

If "patronage dividends" are allowed as an expense in computing taxable income, the payment of income tax will thus become optional to any co-operative or corporation. In such a case, the whole structure of the corporation income tax would break down, thus throwing the entire burden of income tax on the individual.

Revision of The Income War Tax Act, insofar as it concerns Co-operatives, will come before the current Session of Parliament. It is of utmost importance that such revisions shall bring tax equality to all groups. We urge that the income tax payers of Canada insist that their elected representatives in the House of Commons see that the heavy burden of income tax is shared fairly by all.

The Income Tax Payers Association has no objection to the principles of co-operative trading. It should be the right of every Canadian to trade as he desires. Our objective is to ensure that no section of business unloads its share of income taxation and cost of the war on other business or on individual income tax payers.
